Meredith Montgomery, Clerk of the Appellate Courts of Alaska, was confirmed to the Executive Committee of the National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks (NCACC).

Montgomery was appointed Clerk of the Appellate Courts of Alaska in January 2019. She has been employed by the Alaska Court System since 2012, first as a Trial Court Staff Attorney, and then as Chief Deputy Clerk of the Appellate Courts. Born and raised in Anchorage, AK, Montgomery earned her bachelor's degree in English from William Jewell College and her J.D. from Seattle University School of Law. She joined the NCACC in 2016 and has served as Chair of the Convention Assistance Committee as well as a member of the Contracts, Nominating, Program, and Awards, Resolutions, and Memorials Committees.

The NCACC was established in 1973 with the objectives of improving the skills and knowledge of its members, promoting effective court administration, providing a forum for the exchange of ideas, and maintaining facilities for the dissemination of information concerning appellate court operations. Its membership is composed of state, federal, and military appellate and supreme court clerks from the United States, District of Columbia, territories and possessions of the United States, and tribal appellate courts.
